

EDtv Quarterly Report

October 1, 2021

Hello,

Below you will be informed of everything that has transpired for EDtv during the last quarter: from programming updates, news and noteworthy information.

Programming Update

- Interview Show (formerly Red Clay this Month): Our staple original program will be undergoing a branding change. Working on our newest episode now and hoping to do one each marking period.
- Red Clay Cook-Off Family Style: An Original Show produced by EDtv – takes a look at healthy meals and brings in guests such as students, teachers, parents, and special guests to cook and learn alongside RC Nutrition Manager/Host Jessica Terranova. Airing a new episode now and have one that is in post-production.
- The Good Stuff: We are in pre-production on a new episode with short docs about the Hockessin School #107, a new teacher of the year, back to school, and much more
- Sunday Storytime: A weekly children's reading program produced by Baltz Elementary Schools' 3rd Grade Teacher Christina Personti. We are on Season 3 Episode 6 of this show.
- Educational Impact Academy: We have a weekly show featuring one of our principals who does a podcast and video that focuses on Mindfulness for students and parents. Guests from all over the globe take part.
- And we have tons of shorts, docs, bumpers, interstitials that are updated weekly. Including This Day in History, SciShow Kids, CNN Student News, This Week in NASA and so much more.

News and Noteworthy Updates

- New Nexus Server is in and in the process of being installed.
- We were nominated for two Mid Atlantic Emmys.
- Updating schedule.
- Looking to collaborate with more schools, teachers, parents and students as we reach out to them for submissions and possible ideas.

Thank you,
Robert Markopoulos
Executive Producer, EDtv
