

A STRONGER WILMINGTON BEGINS BY LISTENING TOGETHER

When we're in conversation

Youth • Families • Schools • Community

New understanding, stronger relationships, and possibilities grow when we come together.

SAFE ENOUGH TO SPEAK

Every voice matters.

Every person brings something.

Hear the community's needs, experiences, strengths, and assets.

This is where ParentCamp leads: creating equal-footing conversations where people can speak honestly.

OPEN ENOUGH TO LISTEN

Different experiences.

Different perspectives.

Learning with and from one another.

We listen, reflect, and begin to understand someone else's experience.

GROW YOUR OWN COMMUNITY LEADERS

Community Camp doesn't just gather input—it helps people recognize their own ability to lead. By creating safe opportunities to speak, listen, facilitate, and collaborate, residents build the confidence and relationships needed to take action.

The goal is not simply to hear more voices. It is to help more people discover that their voice, experience, and leadership matter.

CONNECTED ENOUGH TO BUILD TOGETHER

From community conversations to shared priorities

Listen → Understand → Prioritize → Act → Learn

START WITH A CIRCLE. SEE WHAT GROWS.

CommunityCamp provides the structure. We have over 10 years of experience of doing this work.

The people of Wilmington shape what it becomes.

Will the Youth and Families Committee help us identify the first three locations, convene the right partners, and explore support for a Wilmington pilot?

Experience and shape a Wilmington CommunityCamp together!
